

Cleopatra and the end of the Hellenistic world

Edward Bispham

Cleopatra, ancient history, archaeology and the end of the Hellenistic world

Kathleen Martinez

The search for Queen Cleopatra; recent excavations at Taposiris Magna

Emma Libonati

The colossal statuary group from Heracleion, Aboukir Bay

Paul Stanwick

Ruler and Subject: Portrait options in Ptolemaic and Roman Egypt

Andrew Meadows

Continuity and Change in the Imperium of Mark Antony: Imperial Images in Civic Coins

Marjorie Venit

Imaging the Afterlife: Intersection and Reciprocity in Monumental Tombs of Graeco-Roman Egypt

Franck Goddio

The Portus Magnus between the Ptolemaic and Roman periods

Catherine Grataloup

The ceramic evidence from Heracleion and Alexandria from the Ptolemaic to the early Roman periods

David Fabre

By Christos the magician? The bowl C1_3557 discovered in the Portus Magnus of Alexandria: misunderstanding and clarification

Lothar Haselberger, Margaret Andrews, Seth G. Bernard, David G. Romano & Stephan Zink
Which Alexandria, precisely, did Cleopatra see? The project 'Mapping Augustan Alexandria' at the University of Pennsylvania

Broan Rose

The Egyptianizing of Rome in the Wake of Actium

Caitlin Barrett

Nilotic Scenes and the Egyptian Theology of the Inundating Nile

Joseph Farrell

Imperial Libraries and the Survival of Classical Literature

Christopher Haas

Alexandria Lost? The Transition to Late Antiquity